

Kelly M. Lippincott is a partner at Gordon Rees Scully Mansukhani LLP in Alexandria, Virginia. She focuses her practice on insurance coverage, product liability, and professional liability. Her clients include insurers, manufacturers, distributors, lawyers, title agents, real estate agents, and insurance agents who rely on Kelly to defend civil lawsuits and develop ways to avoid litigation.

Kelly has first-chaired dozens of jury and bench trials in federal and state courts in Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia. She also has argued before the Maryland Court of Special Appeals and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. In addition, Kelly's experience as a plaintiff's personal injury lawyer brings a unique understanding to her defense work.

In the area of insurance coverage, she has advised insurers on an array of matters and defended insurers in federal and state courts. Kelly has litigated disputes involving property coverage, life insurance coverage, and additional-insureds, as well as other areas of coverage.

Kelly is a member of the DRI Insurance Law Committee, Co-Editor of the ILC's dedicated issue of For the Defense, and contributing author of several DRI compendia, including: Duty to Defend Compendium; Writing a Reservation of Rights: A North American Compendium; Coverage B: Personal and Advertising Injury Compendium.